

Jeffery Chukwuma, Rutgers New Jersey Medical School
Annie Lin, Rutgers Ernest Mario School of Pharmacy

Site Preceptor: Heather M. Schirmer RN, MSN, Director of Nursing at North Jersey Community Research Initiative

Internship:

Over the course of our 7 weeks at NJCRI, we had the opportunity to shadow and speak with incredibly knowledgeable experts. We learned about Hepatitis C treatment, followed the Vaccine Task Force, and more!

Mission Statement: To empower their clients by reducing social and health disparities in the greater Newark area

Project:

Outreach is important for people to be aware of the different options and resources available to them. Focusing on this topic, we created posters on the monkeypox vaccine and STI testing, respectively.

Acknowledgements:

We would like to acknowledge and thank: Our site preceptor, Heather Schirmer; Corey Rosmarin-DeStefano for coordinating between Rutgers and NJCRI; The wonderful staff at NJCRI; Sarah Kelly and Maria Pellerano for organizing the terrific weekly workshops and coordinating the EASI program; the generous support of the Office of the RBHS Chancellor, all of the participating schools, the Boggs Center on Developmental Disabilities at RWJMS, and the community sites that made this all possible
